NORTH CAROLINA CENTRAL UNIVERSITY

SCHOOL OF LAW

DURHAM, NORTH CAROLINA

LAW WEEK 1983

March 21st-27th

The Honorable Henry E. Frye was born August 1, 1932 in Ellerbe, North Carolina.

Justice Frye attended Mineral Spring School, Ellerbe; A & T State University & received a B.S. in 1953. He later attend University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, earning his Juris Doctorate with Honors in June 1959.

Justice Frye's numerous occupations have consisted of: Law Firm of Frye, Barbee and Leway; Banker, Organizer and President of Greensboro National Bank, former Professor of Law at North Carolina Central University, Assistant U.S. Attorney, Middle District, 1963-65.

His organizations consists of: member of the Greensboro Bar Association; North Carolina American and National Bar Associations, Member of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity; Board of Directors, N.C. Mutual Life Insurance Company. While in the North Carolina Senate 1981-82 he served on the Advisory Budget Committee.

In 1971 Shaw University presented Justice Frye with a Doctor of Law and in 1972 he received the Alumni Excellence Award from A & T State University. Justice Frye is married to Edith Shirley Taylor and they have two sons, Henry Eric and Harlan Elbert.

Sworn in as first Black Associate Justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court on February 3, 1983.

Greetings to Alumni and Friends:

With genuine pleasure, on behalf of our entire team - faculty, students and staff - I cordially greet and warmly welcome each of you. We are proud and honored that you have come to share Law Day 1983 with us.

Although our aspirations still exceed our accomplishments, that is in part because we aspire to be the best. To be the best is a long, arduous process of constant effort. Happily we are making great strides toward excellence. Most gratifying is the truly tremendous support you - alumni and friends alike - have given us.

We thank you for being with us and for continuing to support the School of Law.

With highest esteem and warmest appreciation, I remain,

Yours sincerely,

Purpose

The Women's Caucus is an organization of women and men in law school who recognize and strive to eliminate the barriers women face as law students and as members of the legal profession. In addition, the Caucus will act as a vehicle for addressing community concerns in general and those touching women in particular.

NORTH CAROLINA CENTRAL LAW JOURNAL

Now in our thirteenth year, the Journal provides a stimulating forum for criticism, debate, and analysis. The Journal is an excellent aid for lawyers in keeping pace with new trends in the law and anticipating future directions. We also comment on new developments in state law, a necessity for North Carolina practitioners. Past issues have examined the Bakke and Weber decisions, federal intervention under the Voting Rights Act, the latest refinements in school desegregation, and a history of equal protection under the Warren Court. Soon to be published are articles on North Carolina's evidence law and a change in insurance case law. We invite you to subscribe and aid the law journal in expansion by encouraging others to subscribe.

Annual subscription rates are $10.00 each.
