SPRING 1989

Julius L. Chambers Law Day Banquet Speaker

Fiftieth Anniversary Law Day Celebration

"Continuing the Tradition Into the Future With Strength from the Past" was the theme for Law Day 1989. The annual celebration was especially memorable this year because it marked the 50th anniversary of the founding of North Carolina Central University School of Law. Co-Chairs Vercelia Young and Nicolette Burgess, along with all the other students, faculty, staff alumni, and friends who put together this year's program are to be congratulated for an outstanding job. Events in the week-long celebration included a Dean's Forum, the Ernest Fullwood Moot Court Competition, a presentation on "A Look at the Music Industry and the Copyright Law," a basketball tournament, the academic awards ceremony, the annual meeting of the Alumni Association, the fourth annual Law Week Golf Tournament, and the Law Day Banquet.

Dean's Forum

On Monday evening, April 3, Dean Louis Westerfield spoke to the student body on the history of the Law School in light of its mission. The Dean concluded that "the totality of the circumstances leads to the inevitable conclusion that the Law School has been outstanding in the achievement of its mission." The Dean was joined by Milton Jordan, free-lance writer, who has been hired by the University to write a book on the history of the Law School. Mr. Jordan outlined the many struggles the Law School has faced in the past fifty years and promised that his book would feature some of the unsung heroes from the Law School's past who were instrumental in its continuing success.

Fullwood Competition

The winners of the 1989 Ernest Fullwood Moot Court Competition were Addie Harris and Patricia Ford. The teams argued before a distinguished panel of judges: Justice Henry E. Frye of the North Carolina Supreme Court, Judge Clifton Johnson '67 of the North Carolina Court of Appeals and Judge Ernest Fullwood '72, for whom the competition is named and who is on the Superior Court bench in Wilmington. The case, based on Coman v. Thomas Manufacturing Co., 91 N.C. App. 327, 371 S.E.2d 731 (1988), presented the issue of whether an employee "at will" could bring an action for wrongful discharge after being fired for refusing to falsify federal Department of Transportation reports. A decision from the North Carolina Supreme Court is still pending.

Music and Copyright Law

On Wednesday evening in the Moot Court Room, Visiting Associate Professor Brenda Hampden and The Group gave a unique presentation on "A Look at the Music Industry and the Copyright Law." Professor Hampden employed a lecture-musical format to illustrate the limits of copyright protection as they relate to musical "style." Singers for The Group included law students Addie Harris, David Redden, Tracey Cline, Greg Davis, Keith Bell, Elmyra Manigault, and Tracy Gaston. Ms. Jackie Faucett, a faculty secretary, also sang. Professor Hampden played piano, with Freeman Ledbetter on bass and Milford Williams on drums.

Academic Awards

On Friday afternoon in the Moot Court Room Dean Westerfield presented the academic awards for Fall Semester 1987, Spring Semester 1988 and Summer 1988. Forty-four students received awards for making the highest grades in the fifty-eight classes in which awards were given.

Alumni Association Annual Meeting

The Annual Meeting of the Alumni Association was held in the Moot Court Room at 10:00 AM, Saturday, April 8. President William A. Dudley '76 presided. Mr. Dudley introduced the members of the Board of Directors, including newly elected members Wendell Spivey '76, Rosa Sharon White, Lawrence Campbell '84, Dorothy Bernholz '75, and Robert Chambers '85. After the President's report, Mark Morris '82 gave the Treasurer's report. There were also reports from Deborah Mayo-Jefferies '76, Development Committee, Mark Morris, Membership Committee, Michael Morgan '79, Scholarship Committee, and Genevieve Sims '86, Awards Committee. Alex Dawson '85 and Gwen Gardner-Jones '87 were elected as at-large members to the Board of Directors. Person who contributed $1000 to the Alumni Association 1989 Annual Fund were recognized with the Bronze Legal Eagle Award. They are: Ernest Fullwood '72, William A. Dudley, '76, Willie J. Richardson '77, J.J. Samsom, Jr. '47, Donald L. Murphy '76 and Frank W. Ballance '65. Each received a beautiful Bronze Eagle plaque. A plaque with each of their names will hang in the Law School. The membership discussed the desirability of having an alumni directory that would permit Law School graduates to network with people in their geographic area or who practice in their area of interest. President Dudley promised that the Board would look into such a directory. After remarks from Dean Westerfield, President Dudley passed the gavel President-Elect Lynette Hartsell '81, who will serve as President of the Alumni Association in 1989-90. "I know in my heart that this Alumni Association is heading in the right direction and I am sure that Lynette will continue in that direction. I call on all alumni to give her their support in the coming year." After brief remarks, Ms. Hartsell, whose term began at the end of the Law Day ceremonies, adjourned the meeting.

Fourth Annual Law Day Golf Tournament

This year's participants were challenged equally by the weather and by the course as a cold rain fell throughout the day at Hillandale Golf Course in Durham. The event raised nearly $2000 for the Law School scholarship fund. In the Medalist Flight, Art Henderson of Charlotte won the Championship trophy. Mr. Henderson was last year's winner. Boyd Cox from Temple Hill, Maryland, was First Runner-Up. Edward Boyd of Durham was the Second Runner-Up. In the Handicap Flight, Ray Green of Capital Heights, Maryland, took the Championship trophy. First Runner-up was George Lipscomb of Durham, and Charles "Chip" Stanback, also of Durham, was the Second Runner-Up. Art Henderson won the Longest Drive competition, and T. Byron Smith '82 won the award for Closest to the Pin. R.J. Reynolds USA sponsored the event with a contribution of $500. Trophies were contributed by Harris, Inc. of Durham. Tee and Green sponsors were Judge Clifton E. Johnson '67, First Union Plaza, Judge A. Leon Stanback, Jr. '68, and IBM, Research Triangle Park.

Law Day Banquet

The Banquet was held Saturday night at the newly completed Omni Hotel and civic Center in downtown Durham. This year's speaker was Julius Chambers, Director and Counsel for the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund. Mr. Chambers received his law degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill where he was Editor-in-Chief of the North Carolina Law Review. He was formerly a senior partner of the law firm of Chambers, Ferguson, Watt, Wallas & Adkins. P.A. In addition to the Bronze Legal Eagle Awards given by William Dudley of the Alumni Association, Dean Westerfield instituted several awards to recognize achievements of the Law School's graduates. The Daniel G. Sampson Award, in recognition of service in the Alumni Association, was presented to William A. Dudley and Eugene Ellison. The Albert L. Turner Award, in recognition of distinguished public service, went to H.M. "Mickey" Michaux and Frank W. Ballance, Jr. The Floyd B. McKissick Award for outstanding service to the community was given to Jacqueline Morris-Goodson. The Clifton E. Johnson Award for outstanding contribution to the legal profession went to Michael F. Easley. The Julian Thomas Pierce Award for outstanding pro bono work or legal services to the poor was presented to Judith E. Washington.

KEEP THOSE NEW HORIZONS LETTERS COMING!

Focus on the Faculty

Adrienne Fox has become the Director for the Southeast Region of the National Institute of Trial Practice. Professor Fox gave two lectures for the North Carolina Academy of Trial Lawyers. In September she spoke on Practical Trial Skills, and in November she lectured and prepared a manuscript of Privileges. She gave two presentations for the UNC-CLE, Annual Evidence Seminars, one on the Hearsay Exception for Diagnosis and Treatment, and another on character evidence. In March Professor Fox spoke to North Carolina District Attorneys at the Institute of Government on Privileges. She serves on the Board of N.C. Prisoner Legal Services and the Board of the Durham Art Guild.

Deborah Mayo-Jefferies, Law Librarian, is at work on a book for Harrison Publishing Co. The book is tentatively entitled North Carolina Pleading, Practice and Legal Forms Annotated. She serves as a member of the Board of Directors of the North Carolina Central University School of Law Alumni Association, Inc.

Johnny Parker published an article entitled Affirmative Action: Protecting the Untenured Minority Professor During Extreme Financial Exigency in volume 17 of North Carolina Central Law Journal. He is at work on a book on Mississippi damages law.

Charles E. Donegan spoke on "Blacks, the Constitution and Civil Rights" for the History Department at NCCU and at a meeting sponsored by Balsa at the Law School.

Allyson Duncan's article, Fetal and Reproductive Hazards Under Title VII has been accepted for publication in the next edition of North Carolina Central Law Journal. She is also working on a book on North Carolina Appellate Advocacy. In October Professor Duncan gave a CLE training program on Employment Discrimination, and she recently gave a speech in Greensboro to 500 members of the N.C. Association of Educational Personnel on Sex Discrimination. She serves on the Durham County Board of Adjustments, and she was recently appointed by Governor Martin to the Board of Trustees of the North Carolina Symphony.

Walter Nunnallee's article, The Assignment of Income Doctrine as Applied to Section 1041 Divorce Transfers: How the Service Got it Wrong, has been accepted for publication in the fall issue of the Oregon Law Review. Another article, Section 1374 Built-In Gains Tax After the 1988 Act: Improved, but Needs More Fine Tuning, will appear in the summer edition of "The Review of Taxation of Individuals." In May, Professor Nunnallee will appear on the program at the 8th Annual J. Nelson Young Tax Institute at UNC Law School. He will speak on "Conversions from C to S Corporations." Prof. Nunnallee is the Treasurer of the Tax Section of the N.C. Bar Association.

Jim Beckwith is at work on a book on North Carolina debtor-creditor law and bankruptcy. He is the Parish Historian for Christ Episcopal Church in Raleigh.

Patti Solari's article, Custody of the Illegitimate Child, has been accepted for publication in an upcoming issue of North Carolina Central Law Journal. She is also at work, together with Deborah Mayo-Jefferies, on a book tentatively titled North Carolina Pleading, Practice and Legal Forms. She will be co-author of North Carolina Appellate Advocacy with Allyson Duncan. Prof. Solari is a member of the Board of Director of North Carolina Central University School of Law Alumni Association, Inc.

Mary Wright made a presentation on "Legal Perspectives on African-Americans in the U.S." to a delegation of students from the Soviet Union visiting the campus last semester. She represents the Law School on the Faculty Senate and serves as a member of the Family Law Specialization Committee of the N.C. State Bar. She will serve as Acting Assistant Dean for the Day Division next year.

Thomas M. Ringer, Jr. is working on two publications: a supplement to Thorpe's North Carolina Trial Practice Forms, to be published by Harrison Co. later this year, and an article on Rule 609 of the North Carolina Rules of Evidence. He is the Project Director of a $59,000 clinical grant from the United States Department of Education and a grant of $48,000 from the United States Legal Services Corporation. He spoke on "The Application of Rules of Evidence in Civil Rights Litigation" at a CLE seminar sponsored by the North Carolina Black Lawyers Association.

Gregory C. Malhoit published an article, Miller v. C.W. Meyers Trading Post—Let the Landlord Beware, in the Spring 1988 edition of Trial Briefs, North Carolina Academy of Trial Lawyers. He was a panelist on "Homelessness in America," a symposium sponsored by Wake Forest University Law School. He also appeared as a panelist at a CLE seminar sponsored by Southeast Legal Services Programs in Atlanta on "Legal Rights of the Homeless." He was recently elected to the Board of Directors of Meredith College's Paralegal Program.

Patricia H. Marschall published Who Should Decide the Appropriate Response to the Criminal Defendant Who Proposes or Commits Perjury in volume 17 of North Carolina Central Law Journal. She has given two presentations for NITA recently, "Countering Dirty Tricks in Civil Trials" and "The Criminal Defense Lawyer & the Perjurious Client." She will serve as Acting Assistant Dean for Development next year.

Janice Mills is working on a book entitled North Carolina Landlord and Tenant—Breach and Remedies. She will visit the University of Puget Sound School of Law this summer.

Tom Earnhardt was recently elected to the National Board of Directors of Trout Unlimited. He is also Vice-President of TU's International Committee. Beginning in August of 1989, he will serve a year as President of the International Clean Water Federation, which facilitates the exchange of technical and legal information among the world's major water conservation organizations. He will represent that organization during a trip to the Soviet Union this summer.

A Message from the SBA

Dear NCCU School of Law Alumni,

As this is my first contact with you let me introduce myself. I am Jo Ann Bernard, SBA president for the school year 1989-1990. I am very excited about the upcoming academic year. The entire SBA Executive Board has exhibited tremendous enthusiasm and a willingness to serve the student body.

I believe that the alumni are essential to the growth of our fine law school. Therefore, this year the SBA through sincere dedication intends to work towards strengthening the ties between the alumni and NCCU School of Law. I invite you to please express any concerns that you feel the SBA should address.

Best wishes,

Jo Ann Bernard

Many alumni and friends gave directly to the Law School in the 1988-89 academic year.

Gifts of $1000 were received from: Sandra Kellaher, Dr. Harold Hoke and Prof. Patricia Marschall.

The law firm of Thorp, Fuller & Slifkin, P.A. gave $500.

Contributions of $100 came from Monte Watkins, Frank Ballance and Joseph Corey.

Wayne Hadler and Kenneth Rothrock also contributed directly to the Law School.

Members of the Board of Visitors made donations to the Century Plus Fund. Susie R. Powell gave $700. Hildegard Ryals gave 246.24. Dr. Leroy T. Walker, Justice Robert Glass, Attorney General Lacy Thornburg, Dean Harry Groves, Judith Washington, and Julia W. Taylor each contributed $200. Justice Willis Whichard, Michael F. Easley, Tony Seamon, Jr., Justice Henry Frye and James B. Hunt, Jr. each contributed $100.

Professor Broderick Honored

Members of the class of 1989 and the faculty joined to honor retired Professor Al Broderick in a ceremony in the lobby of the Law School on April 25. The event was organized by 3Ls, Georgia Lewis and Tracey Cline. Professors Fox, Kincaid, Kalo and Earnhardt spoke briefly about Professor Broderick's many contributions to the Law School during his 13 years on the faculty. Marjorie Canaday, clerk for Judge Clifton Johnson, spoke on behalf of the alumni. MacArthur Mitchell spoke on behalf of the class of 1989, the last graduating class to have taken Professor Broderick's Constitutional Law course. Assistant Dean Mark Morris accepted a plaque donated to the Law School by the students, which reads:

"In honor of Professor A. J. Broderick whose devotion and service to his law students was equalled only by his integrity and dedication to the principles of freedom given to every American by the U.S. Constitution."

1Ls Volunteer to Work In Middle School Program

First year law student Elaine O'Neal and her sister, Eunice Sanders, wanted to help students in trouble at Rogers-Herr Middle School in Durham. Both women had a clear understanding of the need. Ms. O'Neal is a graduate of Rogers-Herr and Ms. Sanders is currently a teacher at the school. They decided that perhaps the students at the Law School could help, so with the administration at Rogers-Herr, they instituted a program that links sixth graders with first year students from NCCU.

Twenty six law students volunteered to become personal "lawyers" for the sixth graders chosen for the program. The purpose of the program is to provide the youngsters with a mentor-student relationship for three years. The law students visit the middle school on Friday afternoons, but there is frequently contact between the "lawyers" and their clients during the week. Keith Bell was called when his charge was threatened with suspension for fighting. The children also call when they just want somebody to talk to, according to Bell. "They need positive role models, people they can look up to and trust who will be there for them," said Bell. "That's what I try to be."

The law students sponsor group recreational activities, such as a recent Easter egg hunt, and they have given presentations on such things as table manners and personal hygiene. Additional one-on-one contact is left to the law students to arrange.

The program has been well received by teachers and parents, and O'Neal hopes that next year's entering class at the Law School will join the program.

Changes on the Administrative Team

Assistant Dean Janice Mills is leaving the administration, and Associate Professor Mary Wright will become Acting Assistant Dean for the Day Program in June. Dean Mills will visit the University of Puget Sound School of Law this summer to teach Real Estate Finance. She returns to NCCU to teach Property in the fall.

Professor Wright joined the faculty in 1985 after three years on the faculty at Woodrow Wilson School of Law in Atlanta. She will be in charge of admissions and financial aid for the Day Program. "I will miss the classroom, but I saw this as a new challenge and an opportunity to make a different kind of contribution to the Law School."

Professor Pat Marschall has been appointed Acting Assistant Dean for Development, a newly created administrative position. She plans to coordinate a corporate fund raising effort to fund a scholarship endowment. In addition, she will work with the Alumni Association in connection with its fundraising. Professor Marschall will continue to teach Contracts I and II.

New Faculty

Judge Robert Orr of the North Carolina Court of Appeals will teach a section of Appellate Advocacy in the Evening Program this fall. "We are delighted to have Judge Orr join the faculty to teach this course," said Mark Morris, Assistant Dean for the Evening Program. "The students are excited by the prospect of having instruction from a sitting appellate court judge. It makes the course real for them in a way that other law school courses can not be."

Omar Saleem '88 will serve as Acting Associate Law Librarian next academic year. In addition to his duties in the library, Mr. Saleem will teach Legal Bibliography. Mr. Saleem, who graduated cum laude, was Editor-in-Chief of North Carolina Central Law Journal when he was a student. He is currently a clerk for Justice Henry Frye of the North Carolina Supreme Court.
