NCCU TRIAL ADVOCACY TEAM WINS REGIONAL COMPETITION

Three trial teams sponsored by the Trial Advocacy Board of North Carolina Central University School of Law competed in trial competitions from March 4th through March 8th. One Central team was the co-winner of the Florida Regional Competition which was sponsored by the Association of Trial Lawyers of America (ATLA). A second team from Central was undefeated in the preliminary rounds of that competition and suffered its only loss in the semifinal round of that competition to a team from Wake Forest University Law School - the eventual co-winner of the Florida Regional Competition.

A third trial team from Central participated in the National Trial Advocacy Competition in San Antonio, Texas where it went undefeated in the preliminary rounds of that competition and lost in the quarterfinal round to a team from Temple University School of Law - the eventual National Champion. This team was composed of Dawn Baxton and Michael Williams as primary advocates and Elaine Bingenheimer, Elsa Marte' and Damian Tucker as assistant advocates. As a result of its performance, the team from Central earned a final ranking among the top eight teams in the nation out of 120 law school teams that participated in the nationwide competition.

The two teams from Central that competed in the ATLA Regional Competition in Orlando were matched against teams from Florida State University, William & Mary, Washington & Lee, Wake Forest University, Campbell University, the University of Miami, the University of Orlando and Stetson University. Both Central teams performed extremely well. The Central team composed of Curtis Osborne of Monroe, NC, Rapunzel Phair of Spring Lake, NC, Randy Lee of Cary, NC and Linda Ward of Hickory, NC was undefeated during the preliminary rounds of the competition. This team's only loss occurred in the semi-finals to a team that it had defeated during the preliminary rounds of the competition.

Members of the winning Central team are Regina Armster of Thomasville, Georgia, and a graduate of NC A&T State University; Loretta Burney of Raleigh, NC and a graduate of NC State University; Gary Henderson of Charlotte, NC and a graduate of Appalachian State University; and Sonya Whitaker of Ahoskie, NC and a graduate of North Carolina Central University. Darryl Patillo, the alternate member of the team, is from New York City and is a graduate of St. Johns University. On March 26th, the championship team will compete in the ATLA National Championship in Washington, DC.

Panelists will address the systems and procedures employed in the management of litigation, communication with outside counsel and the identification of best practices.

The registration fee is $50.00. To register, contact the program chairman, David B. Zoffer, Executive Vice President, ICALM Group, 6320 Quadrangle Drive, Suite 230, Chapel Hill, NC 27514; telephone number - (919) 419-7370; Fax number - (919) 419-7366. The registration fee for law school faculty and law school students is $25.00

AN ARTICLE ON THE NEED FOR PUBLIC INTEREST LAWYERS BY RALPH NADER

PUBLISHED IN THE DECEMBER 1997
ISSUE OF Student Lawyer Magazine

Every law student should remember
the following three things:

- 1.) You can make a difference to society as a lawyer.
- 2.) You can make a difference to society today as a law student.
- 3.) Nearly everything and everyone you encounter in law school and the legal profession will tempt you away
from making more money.

Sociologist Robert Granfield
published in 1992 an insightful book,
Making Elite Lawyers, about what happens to Harvard Law School students between their acceptance and graduation.
Granfield says that law school often turns idealists into amoral pragmatists. "The first-year students see the second- and third-year students interviewing with corporations and corporate firms," Granfield says. "They hear about the big money that can be made and the perks, the six-figure income down the road. Even the most 'socially progressive' students begin to rationalize working for the large corporate firms. They think that is the way to power and that they will be able to reform perceived wrongs from the top down. The only problem is that by the time they get there, they don't push for change because they have become part of the very power system they once disdained."

Today, there are not many law professors who attempt to instill idealism in their students. Many come from corporate law backgrounds and, indeed, maintain lucrative corporate law practices on the side. An aggressive school of thought on the law school campus is the empirically starved, narrow ideology of "law and economics," which provides business with convenient formulae--ones that downplay hard-to-quantify human costs--to block
health and safety regulations and antitrust enforcement.

But the law school of today at least does offer courses on topics like consumer law, environmental law and civil rights.
You have more clinical programs that give students a chance to discover how the law can assist, or thwart, people of modest means. Corporate law firms interviewers sometimes will trumpet their authentic pro bono activities. Other times pro bono boasts are window-dressing, and lawyers who pursue them are unable to credit their efforts toward the billable-hours race.

Your predecessors--students in the 1960s and early 1970s--made these changes happen. Law students organized civil rights work and even went to jail for their beliefs, illuminating the conscience of cloistered law professors. Law students insisted that poverty law and environmental law be added to the curriculum. They also demanded that corporate firms report their pro bono efforts to them.

Times are quieter now. The great injustices of today are more subtle. A glimmer of how law students can still inspire their elders is seen every year at the annual meeting and dinner of the nonprofit
National Association for Public Interest Law (NAPIL) in Washington, D.C. (You can reach NAPIL at 1118 22nd Street,
N.W., Washington, DC 20037; (202) 466-3686.)

Public interest work is available, and new opportunities loom. In 1993, I joined with my classmates from the Harvard Law School class of 1958 to create the Appleseed Foundation, whose chief purpose is to establish, with young lawyer organizers, Centers for Law and Justice in state after state throughout the country: Appleseed (733 15th Street, N.W., Suite
700, Washington, DC 20005; (202) 393-1223), which has already started six centers, focuses on producing systemic solutions to pervasive problems, rather than on individual legal aid.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader is founder of the Center for Study of Responsive Law in Washington, D.C. He also is co-author, with Wesley J. Smith, of the recently published No Contest: Corporate Lawyers and the Perversion of Justice in America (Random House).

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The North Carolina Central University School of Law Alumni Association is offering four Bar review scholarships in the amount of $800.00. Scholarships are awarded based on financial need. Interested students should pick up an application from Attorney Perry's office or the front desk. Applications must be returned by Wednesday, March 18th @ 5:00 p.m. No late applications will be accepted.

Recipients will receive a complimentary ticket to the Law Week Banquet and will also be recognized at the Banquet. Recipients MUST attend the Banquet in order to receive the scholarship.

If you have any additional questions, please see Attorney Perry.

NCCU Law Alumni Bar Scholarship Applications are due to Attorney Perry by Wednesday, March 18, 1998. Students may have the receptionist place them in her faculty mailbox or leave them in the folder on her door. If you have any questions, please see Attorney Perry.

Attorney Perry is looking for a rising second year PBAP student to assist her with PBAP this summer. The program is tentatively scheduled for June 1 - 12, 1998. If you have any questions about the position, you may speak with Mr. Brian Guy, who assisted Attorney Perry last year, or Attorney Perry. If you are interested, please see Attorney Perry as soon as possible.

Attorneys Perry and Lavelle are looking for students to help out with a Law Camp this summer. The camp is scheduled to take place June 22 - 26, 1998. Students would assist in providing the campers with an overview of the legal system and preparing for mock trials. The camp meets from 8:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m. Students will be compensated for working with the camp. If you are interested, please see Attorney Perry or Lavelle.

CRIMINAL LITIGATION CLINIC SUMMER SESSION ALERT!

Now is the time for second year students who will be rising third year students this summer to make plans to take the summer session of criminal litigation clinic. If you have taken Criminal Law, Criminal Procedure, Trial Practice and Evidence, you are ready to take this course and participate in the summer clinic. After completing the Criminal Litigation Course Component, each student is placed in a District Attorney's Office and will spend the rest of the summer prosecuting criminal cases in District Court. This is a unique opportunity to acquire intense trial experience. There is no question about it! If it is your goal to be in the courtroom (on either side of the aisle!) after graduation, there is no better preparation.

If you are interested, contact Clinical Professor Mary Easley @ 560-5620 or in person.

ATTENTION LAW STUDENTS

NC LEAF is a unique, collaborative effort of law schools and bar organizations in NC which assists public service lawyers in the repayment of their educational loans in order to encourage their commitment to providing equal access to the justice system for all North Carolinians. Each law school has a student representative on the NC LEAF Board of Directors. The seat for the NCCU law student is current vacant.

If you are interested in serving on the Board, please contact Prof. Pamela Glean, Room 112, or in the clinic. This is an exciting opportunity - don't miss out!!!

Interested in running for SBA office or class office? An informational meeting will be @ 2:00 p.m. on March 18th.

Pick up interest sheets from the SBA office and the front desk. Forms must be submitted by March 30th.

The Black Law Student Association would like to thank the following individuals:

Tonya Ford
Toni Hickey
Kenneth Snow
Carleton Atkinson
Rob Corbett
Tyesha Elam
Toni King
Pili Fleming
Valerie Ballance
Cicely Breckenridge
Tonya Mitchell

These individuals represented NCCU at the Southern Region National Black Law Student Association Conference held March 5th - 8th in New Orleans, Louisiana. Fourteen law schools were in attendance, and NCCU was one of the schools with the highest attendance. Through this attendance the voice of NCCU BLSA was heard. Tonya Ford has been placed on the executive board of the Southern Regional National Black Law Student Association; therefore, NCCU BLSA will continue to have an active voice.

There will be a meeting in the near future to disseminate information that was gathered at the conference.

The National Black Law Student Association Conference will be held March 25th - March 29th in Boston, Massachusetts.

LAW WEEK QUIZ BOWL

BLSA will sponsor the Second Annual African American Law Week Quiz Bowl on April 1st. There are sign - up sheets throughout the school for teams to sign up to participate. Each team should consist of two people. If you have any questions, please contact Tonya Ford or Michael Williams (1L).

TUTORIALS

Tutorials will resume on Monday, March 23, 1998. The Writing Lab will meet on Thursday as scheduled.

The following tutors should see Attorney Perry to review their mid-term evaluations this week: Trent Gaines, Michelle Gardner, Maw Creadick and Damian Tucker. Thank you.

Students interested in tutoring in the Fall '98 semester should see Attorney Perry for a tutor application. I anticipate that several slots will be open. Remember that tutors are needed for both sections of all the first year classes, except Legal Bibliography. Tutors are also needed for Constitutional Law, Evidence, and Decedents' Estates I. If you have any questions about the job responsibilities, please see Attorney Perry.

CALENDAR All classes, except for Trial Advocacy, meet daily beginning Thursday, May 21. The three courses marked with an asterisk (*) will run through Wednesday, June 24, with exams on June 26-27. The Race & Poverty Law course will run through July 9 with the exam on July 11, and will not meet on June 26-27. Monday, May 25, and Friday, July 3, are holidays for all classes. Scheduling details for the Trial Advocacy course, which will begin on May 17, are set forth in the course description.

COURSE LOAD Students may register for up to two courses. Registration for a third course is considered an overload and is permitted only if authorized by the Associate Dean for Academic Affairs.

TUITION AND FEES $345.00 for 3 hours, $540 for 6 hours for resident students, and $1775.00 for 3 hours, $3350 for 6 hours for non-resident students. An additional charge of $31.00 is imposed for any student taking the 7 ½ week course. Tuition due: 5/1/98.

REGISTRATION To avoid the $10 late registration fee, all UNC and visiting students must be registered by April 15, 1998. UNC law students may begin calling Caroline beginning 12Noon, Saturday, March 21, to register. Detailed instructions are available from the Law Registrar. Students from other law schools must submit the yellow registration form included with this schedule to the Registrar before 4pm, April 9. For students who apply after the April deadline, tuition and fees must be paid in advance to the University Cashier, CB 1400, UNC-Chapel Hill, Chapel Hill, NC 27599-1400, before registration can occur. Late registration and drop/add begin May 13 and run through 5pm May 22. The last day to drop a course for financial credit is May 28. Last day to withdraw from school for partial financial credit is June 11.

VISITING STUDENT ADMISSION No formal application is required, however, students from law schools other than The University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill must submit to the Law School Registrar a letter from the student's dean certifying good standing and the maximum number of credit hours for which the student is permitted to register. Those who intend to claim North Carolina residency for tuition purposes also must submit a residency application, included with this schedule, by April 9. Late residency applications will result in delayed registration.

PROBATE LAW

LAW 293 (Call # 30006)

3 hrs.

An introduction to the law of intestate succession, wills, trusts, future interests, and administration, approached from the perspective of the planner and drafter. Although some tax matters are considered, the course focuses on typical small-to medium-sized estates in which federal tax problems do not predominate. The course is a substitute for Trusts and Estates for students who do not expect estate planning or real estate titles to be significant areas of interest but who want some acquaintance with issues that arise in wills, trusts, and future interests. The course is not open to those who have taken Trusts and Estates. Lewis

RACE & POVERTY LAW

3 hrs.

The exploration of developments in constitutional doctrine affecting the legal status of racial minorities and the poor from the post-Civil War era to the present. Review of controversies surrounding adoption of the Fourteenth Amendment, focusing on the Equal Protection Clause; how the Supreme Court applied that clause during the latter nineteenth and early twentieth centuries; judicial expansion of Fourteenth Amendment protection for Black citizens in post-World War II era; present difficulty that poor and minority citizens face in attaining equal opportunities. Boger
